FRENCH PARLIAMENT APPROVES MEASURE TO DEVALUE FRANC

Premier Blum's Monetary Bill Fails to Win Passage Through Senate Until Proposed Powers of Decree Are Modified—Action Ends Threat to Government Stability

PARIS, Oct. 1 (AP).—France's devalued franc bore the final stamp of parliamentary approval tonight, ending one of the gravest threats to the stability of the Blum ministry. Three days of wrangling between the Senate and Chamber of Deputies ended in a "clipped" victory for Premier Blum.

He won authority to reduce the gold content of money. He lost the free hand he sought to fight price rises and attendant social disturbances.

The Senate refused to give him the unbridled decree power he asked. He had to be content with a mandate to issue decrees subject to approval by the National Economic Council.

TAX ON SPECULATORS

Parliament adjourned after the Senate accepted a Chamber provision for a 50 per cent tax on speculators' profits based on anticipation of valuation. The Lower House had refused to accept the Senate's proposal for an 80 per cent tax and it repassed its original 50 per cent plan, in which the Senate finally concurred.

Officials indicated the Government will not attempt immediately to fix a definite value for the franc. They will let it find its own level in world exchange values within the limits of 43 to 49 milligrammes gold content provided under the devaluation law. This would give it the possibility of fluctuation between the values of 20.15 and 22.96 francs to the dollar.

MERRY MUDDLE BACK OF STAGE

Opening of Revue at Adelphi Disturbed by Temperamental Temper

LONDON, Oct. 1 (AP).—The London opening of Jimmy Donahue's musical show, "Trans-Atlantic Rhythm," tonight turned out to be a Roman holiday of good old theatrical temperament.

The revue went on, all right, but only after Ruth Etting had threatened to quit because she hadn't been paid; after mad backstage scenes in which Lupe Velez sang a little number to quiet hollering showgirls; and after extra police had been called to keep the Adelphi Theatre from being mobbed by curious Londoners who wanted to examine manifestations of American theatrical doings.

WAITING FOR PAY

Miss Etting declared Donahue, her to the West Coast five-and-a-half fortune shared by his cousin, the former Barbara Hutton, hadn't paid her the $1,500 which was her due. Furthermore, she said, she would go back to Broadway on the next boat if young Mr. Donahue didn't lay it on the line.

To which Donahue replied he wasn't going to sink any more money in anybody's show.

Jimmy was understood to have invested $35,000 in "Trans-Atlantic Rhythm," and his partner, Felix Perry, $30,000.

THE QUEEN MOVES TO MARLBOROUGH

Her Majesty Leaves Buckingham Palace After Twenty-Five Years' Residence There

LONDON, Oct. 1 (AP).—Emotion struggled between tears and a faint wistful smile as Queen Mary, after twenty-five years as mistress of Buckingham Palace, moved today into her new home at Marlborough House.

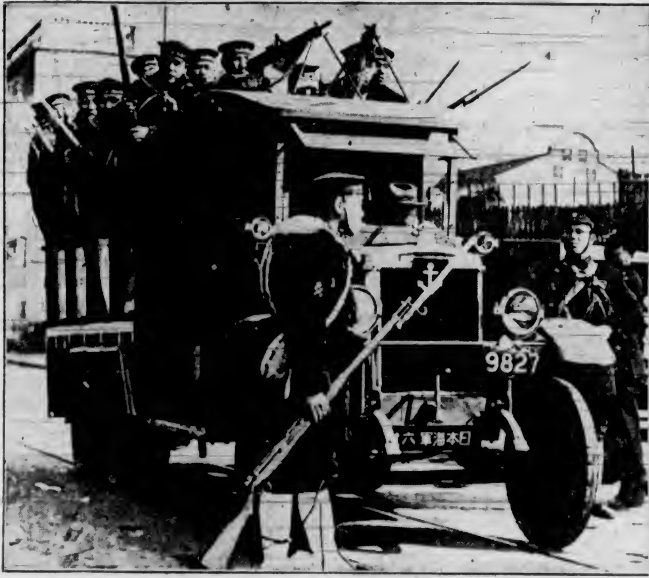

Profoundly erect, a stately figure in black, the Queen turned once to look back at the huge grey-stone palace where for more than a quarter of a century she had reigned as consort to the late King George.

Then, with a wave of her gloved hand at the small group of on-lookers, she stepped into the big maroon-colored royal limousine followed by King Edward and drove the short distance to Marlborough House, traditional residence of Britain's widowed Queen.

Conservatives in Britain Opposed to Surrender of Any Mandated Territory

Convention Gives Unanimous Approval to Government's Defence Policy

URGES PREFERENCE ON AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE

MARGATE, Kent, Oct. 1 (AP).—The Conservative party opened its annual conference at this seaside resort today, heard a strong speech on defence questions by Sir Samuel Hoare, administered a rebuff to the Government on the mandates question, and urged an Imperial tariff preference on all agricultural produce.

The conference showed itself entirely out of sympathy with the Government's refusal to pledge itself definitely not to discuss the question of the possible transfer of British mandated territories, and decried an amendment which expressed the official attitude.

Samuel Hoare, First Lord of the Admiralty, attempted unsuccessfully to rally the delegates to the official view after declaring in his speech

THIRTY ENTOMBED IN FRENCH COAL MINE

MONS, France, Oct. 2 (CP-Havas).—Rescue workers dug feverishly early this morning in the hope of rescuing twenty or more miners entombed in the Grandprie coal mine at nearby La Bourverie.

The men were buried last night under a rock slide following a gas explosion. Six injured miners were taken from the pit. Several others escaped unhurt.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP).—Alfred Fonder, twenty-nine, slapped a woman in a movie theatre tonight because he said she made "too much noise," talking incessantly throughout the performance.

Night Court Magistrate Henry Curran dismissed the woman's complaint, saying he thought movie patrons should be considerate of others who had paid to see and hear a show.

Government Queries Municipal Councils On Oaths of Office

Peculiar Situation Arises Through Discovery That Law Requires Declaration Before Designated Court Officials—Legislation Required

BEHIND an apparently innocuous questionnaire being circulated by E. H. Bridgman, deputy minister of municipal affairs, among the different municipalities of the Province is hidden a matter of grave concern to the Provincial Government as well as to an undetermined number of incorporated communities. It is no less than a question as to whether or not some mayors, reeves, aldermen and councillors are legally occupying the offices that they fill.

Those who previously occupied these offices retain authority (provided that they were properly sworn in) until the prescribed oath before the proper court dignitaries has been taken. The Municipal Act gives authority to city and municipal clerks to take oaths.

It appears that owing to the confusion resulting from the two acts that some municipalities have been

New Head of Canadian Radio Given Farewell Luncheon in London

LONDON, Oct. 1 (CP-Havas).—Fleet Street, which he has enjoyed the friendliest relations, gave a farewell luncheon today for Major Gladstone Murray, who is leaving the British Broadcasting Corporation to sail to Canada, where he will be general manager of the newly constituted Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Editors, managers and personal friends entertained Major Murray at a luncheon in the Savoy Hotel and paid tribute to the grace and tact which he consistently has displayed in his relations with the London press. Beverley Baxter, Toronto-born member of Parliament, presided.

Women Admitted To Holy Orders In United Church

First Action of Kind Taken in Canada—Move Is Climax to Continuous Study Since Union Effected Eleven Years Ago—Council Legislates on Conducting Marriages

OTTAWA, Oct. 1 (AP).—The United Church today became the first church in Canada to admit women to ordination as ministers, voting almost unanimously to give effect to such action by amending the basis on which church union was consummated in 1925.

The council adopted a recommendation brought down by the law and legislation committee and moved by Miss Ann Fountain, of Vancouver. Miss Fountain said she felt the historic importance of the move the church was making "as a further step in the forward movement of women in our church."

TWO WARSHIPS GUARDING LINER

Spanish Office Disclaims Responsibility for Its Ship Off Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 1 (AP).—Two Argentine warships tonight guarded the Spanish liner Cape San Antonio outside the harbor here, believing a recalcitrant crew was in command, with the captain a prisoner.

The ship left the coast of Montevideo yesterday, where it had been detained, and its owners, the Ibarra Company, of Seville, Spain, made no effort to contact it. Offices of the line here, at Santos, Brazil, and Montevideo, asserted the ship had not been ordered on its voyage and disclaimed responsibility for passengers and crew.

She declared the action was the first of its kind taken by a church in Canada, although allied churches in other countries, that is churches growing out of missions founded by the United Church, had permitted women to become ministers for some time.

The subject of ordination of women has been studied almost continuously since church union. It was made the subject of a remit to Presbyterians by the last general council, in 1924. The Presbyteries

SHARP CLASH AT KNITTING MILLS

READING, Pa., Oct. 1 (AP).—Several thousand pickets and workers, clashing at the Berkshire Knitting mills, injured thirty persons, three of them seriously, in strike disorders tonight quelled by state police today.

Tear gas bombs routed the rioters, as the mill, opened early this morning. Mounted troops, swinging riot sticks, ended the second outbreak as the workers changed shifts in the afternoon.

Austria Violates Treaty by Calling 8,000 to Service

VIENNA, Oct. 1 (AP).—Repudiating the post-war Treaty of St. Germain, Austria today called 8,000 youths, aged twenty-one, to the colors for a period of compulsory military service. Backed by a promise of full Italian support from Premier Benito Mussolini, the Austrian Government today took the treaty-breaking step despite earlier warnings that such protests would be forthcoming from the Little Entente.

Spanish Cortes Takes Step Toward Republic of Workers Promised If Government Victorious—Insurgent Encampments in Unbroken Line Almost Surround the Capital

Counter-Attack Launched By Loyalists at Bargas

MADRID, Oct. 1.—With the insurgent vanguard about twenty miles from the city's gates, the Spanish Cortes met today and unanimously endorsed Premier Francisco Largo Caballero's battle cry: "Better to die standing than to live on our knees!"

The deputies voted autonomy for the Basque Provinces as the first step toward a Federal "Republic of Workers" which Premier Largo Caballero said, would be set up if the Government were victor in the Civil War.

Along the highways leading to Madrid, the Leftist militia fought to stem the advance of General Francisco Franco's Moors and Foreign Legionnaires, flushed with their victory at Toledo.

RINGING THE CAPITAL
The insurgent encampments tonight all but ringed the capital, their unbroken line looking on the map like a clutching hand over Madrid, with the "wrist" stretching off to the east.

The vote granting the Basque country autonomy similar to Catalonia was seen as immediately designed to strengthen the defence of Bilbao, the important city on the Bay of Biscay, where the Basques have fought for the Government.

Basques and Anarchists were reported fighting in the streets over methods for the city's defence in reports from Bilbao. The insurgents, advancing from Zumaya, were reported twenty-seven miles away.

R. D. HARVEY PRESIDENT

City Conservatives Return Chief Officers by Acclamation at Big Rally

Robert D. Harvey was chosen president of the Victoria Conservative Association last evening by acclamation, succeeding E. W. Maynard, retiring president, at an annual meeting which was held with standing room only in the Conservative Rooms, Campbell Building. Several hundred Conservatives of the city and surrounding districts contributed to an enthusiastic rally, at which prominent speakers were heard.

W. H. M. Haldane was chosen first vice-president after a close contest with J. E. Branson, nominated with him for that office. Mrs. M. J. Roberts, second vice-president; P. G. Mulliner, treasurer, and Fred A. Willis, secretary, were re-elected by acclamation.

OTHER OFFICERS
Ballotting ensued for the choice of two members to the British Columbia executive of the party, with Mrs. W. C. Moreby and F. G. Mulliner selected; and for four delegates to the provincial annual meeting, who were chosen as follows: F. A. Willis, Brigadier J. Sutherland, Hon. W. H. M. Haldane and J. E. Branson.

On the platform were Senator R. F. Green, Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., Herbert Anscomb, M.P.; Robert A. Wootton, president of the British Columbia Conservative Association, and officers of the city association.

Outgoing officers were thanked for efficient work in an active year, in which the city organization met the test of a Federal by-election called at three weeks' notice, and reported the victory of the previous general election of the year before. Active plans were laid for the coming year.

SCOTT AND GUTHRIE WIN BIG AIR RACE; TWO FLYERS KILLED

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Oct. 1 (AP).—Only two planes remained in the running tonight in the Portsmouth Johannesburg Air Derby after C. W. A. Scott and Giles Guthrie had won the race and a fatal accident had eliminated the Ken Waller-Max Findlay entry.

Still trying to reach Johannesburg before the expiration of the time limit of 120 hours were A. E. Clouston and Victor Smith. The former was in second place, waiting for necessary repairs at Khartoum in Sudan before continuing. Smith, due to his nickname of "Unlucky Victor," still was held up near Saloniki, Greece, after a forced landing.

Findlay and Wireless Operator A. H. Morgan were killed when the Waller-Findlay plane crashed in a take-off from Abercorn, Northern Rhodesia, at the south end of Lake Tanganyika. Waller and a passenger, C. D. Peachey, escaped unhurt, except for shrapnel.

Scott and Guthrie were greeted by a crowd of 2,000 when they brought their plane down at 10:45 a.m. A

SEARCHING FOR LOST HUNTERS

Two Parties in Dorothy Lake District Unreported—Tracks Picked Up

VANCOUVER, Oct. 1 (AP).—Inspector Frank R. Butler, of the British Columbia Game Department here, tonight said he expected word at any time from Inspector Van Dyck who is searching for two hunting parties lost in the Dorothy Lake district, in the northeastern section of British Columbia.

Inspector Van Dyck left Fort St. James on Monday in an airplane piloted by Pilot Luck, but heavy fog forced them down at Fort St. James.

PICK UP TRACKS
At 1:30 p.m. Tuesday they continued to Dorothy Lake, where they picked up tracks of one of the parties, which included John A. Newberry, of Huntingdon, W. Va., according to information received by Inspector Butler.

After picking up the tracks of the Newberry party the plane proceeded to Fort St. John to refuel last night and today returned to Dorothy Lake.

The other party is headed by Dr. J. Carr, of Norristown, Pa., and includes Paul Bine, of Minneapolis; Dr. H. Leibold, of Parkers Prairie, Minn., and L. B. Chadwick, of Cleveland.

Inspector Butler said the hunting parties were in charge of J. A. Ross and "W. S. Kelly," both capable guides, and he believed no fear need be felt for their safety.

ELDERLY MAN IS GUNSHOT VICTIM

Cecil Cooke, Rocky Point, Believed Accidentally Killed When Gun Discharged

Cecil Cooke, an elderly resident of Rocky Point in the Metcalfe district, was "found dead" at the "foot" of his home on the Rocky Point Road early yesterday afternoon. Lying beside him was a double-barrelled 12-gauge shotgun with one discharged cartridge in the chamber. There was a gaping wound on one side of the head, apparently caused by a charge of buckshot.

Sergeant Richard Harvey, of the Provincial Police, investigated and gave his opinion the shooting was accidental. Sergeant Harvey said it was apparent the man was in the act of passing through a woodshed, at the rear of his home, to go hunting and it is believed the hammer of the gun caught in the door and discharged.

Mr. Cooke had been a resident of Metcalfe district for many years and was well known. He had been retired for a number of years.

Lukewarm Stand On Defences Is Given Challenge

"Either We Are Britishers or We Are Not—If We Are, There Is No Use Hanging Out in Time Of War," Hon. Dr. S. E. Tolmie Tells Victoria Conservative Audience

CANADA'S defenceless position on the Pacific coast and lukewarm utterances in international affairs were handled bluntly by Hon. Dr. S. E. Tolmie, M.P., touching on the issue of Empire defences in a vigorous address before city and district Conservatives at the Campbell Building last evening. Dr. Tolmie was one of several speakers referring to the same issue during the evening. He said, in part:

"We have heard some very milk and water speeches lately on the question of Empire defences, from those speaking in the name of Canada. But there is only one kind of a Britisher to be, and that is 100 per cent British.

SERIOUS POSITION
"It is a serious matter, our defenceless position on the Pacific Coast. If we get into trouble, an enemy power could destroy the three main cities of the province, and cripple the province without much chance of reply.

"It is not any too soon to have Lord Elphinstone and the Hon. Ian MacKenzie take this subject up, and I am very glad to see that the Minister of National Defence is taking it up.

"We have heard a good deal about the necessity for trade within the Empire and the need of fair trading. If we can establish our share of that trade which excites enemy we get for refusing to take our part in defending that Empire?

NO ALTERNATIVE
"Either we are Britishers or we

Assessment Cases At Revision Court Show Decrease

ONLY forty-eight appeals are on file for consideration of the court of revision on the assessment roll. The number is believed to be the smallest for many years.

Eight appeals were heard by the court yesterday morning, and the majority of property owners affected stood as originally assessed. A total reduction of $260 was made on property improvements. Members of the court of revision are Acting Mayor James Adam, Aldermen T. W. Hawkins, Andrew McEwen, Dr. J. D. Hunter and S. H. O'Neil. They will sit again at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

NEW TROUBLES IN NORTH CHINA

Marines to Withdraw From Hongkew if Verdict Is Received Quietly

SHANGHAI, Oct. 2 (AP)—Chinese citizens, in near-panic, awaited today a verdict in the "Nakayama case," as Japan augmented its military patrols in what may be a new trouble zone appeared in North China.

A verdict in the trial of the alleged slayers of Hideo Nakayama, a Japanese naval warrant officer, is expected soon.

A Chinese report said the Japanese would withdraw their armed forces from the Hongkew area, placed under sudden martial law yesterday, provided there were "no unfavorable events" twenty-four hours after the verdict.

ASK FOR PROTECTION

Japanese residents of Tsingtao, meanwhile, petitioned the headquarters of the North China Japanese Garrison at Tientsin, asking additional troops to protect their nationals. They described the atmosphere in Shantung Province as "most dangerous."

The Japanese Hongkew quarter of Shanghai, which borders the Chinese Chapel district, was surrounded by marines with fixed bayonets, but the stream of frightened Chinese evacuating the neighborhood dwindled.

Late today the Japanese tightened their control of Hongkew.

FRENCH PARLIAMENT DEVALUES CURRENCY

The Bourse closed six days during which there have been no official operations in securities, bonds or foreign exchange, will reopen tomorrow.

But a threatened strike of 20,000 employees of Paris hotels, restaurants and cafes may bring an immediate test of the power just voted to the Government and Economic Council to force arbitration of labor disputes.

Employers placed themselves "on the alert" pending reply by the employers to demands which included immediate signing of a collective contract and substitution of fixed percentages for tips.

A striking river boatmen still blocked waterways of Northern France as the occupation strike movement continued.

Former Patients Aiding Solarium

Among the taggers for the Solarium tag day tomorrow will be some former patients of the Solarium who have offered their help. For the information of those who will be tagging the tag-day committee will be at the Victoria Women's Institute rooms from 8 o'clock to give out boxes and badges. There are still many corners not taken and it is hoped that more taggers will volunteer their services. "as usual" refreshments will be served by the members of Victoria W.I. And further information can be given by the convener, Mrs. W. Peden, #2450.

Party Opposed to Surrender of Any Mandated Territory

to the conference that the British Government itself had no intention of raising the question.

NOT DISCUSSABLE
Duncan Sanjays, son-in-law of Winston Churchill, introduced the mandates resolution, which was carried with cheers. It urged the Government "in order to dispel grave anxieties within the Empire and dangerous hopes abroad, to give an assurance that the declaration made by the then Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, in the March, 1935, that the cessation of British mandated territory was not a discussable question, still remains the unaltered attitude of His Majesty's Government."

Sir Samuel Hoare reviewed Prime Minister Baldwin's statement in the House of Commons last April, in which Mr. Baldwin made the legal position of mandates clear. He showed then that no provision was made for the transfer of mandates and assured the House the Government had no intention of raising the matter. Sir Samuel added he hoped that in the present delicate international situation he would not be expected to elaborate or add to these statements.

AMENDMENT REJECTED
The amendment which the conference rejected asked that the delegates accept this declaration as well as the Prime Minister's assurance that the Government would not enter into any commitments without first consulting the fullest discussion in the House of Commons. Sanjays' original motion was carried by acclamation.

Sir Samuel's speech on defence questions was followed by the conference recommending the Government's defence policy. In his speech Sir Samuel said the situation had become "substantially worse" during the past six months. He said the Empire had become a disturbing factor in international politics, that Germany was spending $4,000,000,000 annually in military expenditure, and that the Japanese had reached the striking figure of 46 per cent.

IMPERIAL PREFERENCE
The conference passed a resolution urging an Imperial tariff preference on agricultural produce in place of the present method of controlling foreign imports by quotas and subventions. The resolution read:

"Present methods having proved disappointing, the conference urges the Government to adopt a general protective tariff over all agricultural produce at differential rates between foreign countries and our Dominions, which would be both flexible and comprehensive in action, give immediate assistance to our agriculture, generally enable the payment of wages which would retain farm workers in agriculture and, and that an assurance against a situation of international emergency, would at the same time foster reciprocal intra-Empire trade."

REARMAMENT REVIEWED
Reviewing the work already done in the rearmament programme, Sir Samuel said the 1936 naval programme alone consisted of two battleships, seven cruisers, eighteen destroyers, two aircraft carriers, eight submarines, six sloops and six motor-torpedoes, and that the programme was still in progress.

Police reported there had not been any new developments in the case yesterday, and they said they would work on the theory that Gravelin had left the island and might have gone East or across the international boundary. The question of disguise is held as a probable means of escaping detection.

Mrs. Gravelin's coat, hat and shoes, which were not found with the body, are still missing, police said.

TWO CYCLISTS ARE HURT IN ACCIDENTS

Two cyclists suffered minor injuries in accidents yesterday. Coming in collision with a car driven by Robert Burns, 3064 Highway Road, as the machine was leaving a service station at the intersection of Quadra and Pimlico Streets, George Galloway, 1444 Grant Street, received a cut over his right eye and bruises to his left leg and arm. He was taken to the Royal Jubilee Hospital, where he was attended by Dr. E. L. McEwen.

Bruires and minor abrasions to his right ear and legs were sustained by C. M. Allister, 516 Michigan Street, when his bicycle was in collision at Simcoe and Government Streets with a car driven by Fred Danke, 36 Government Street. He was treated at home by Dr. Thomas McPherson.

Evening Technical Classes Open Term With Many Present

Nearly Seven Hundred Persons Throng Corridors At Victoria High School to Register for Special Courses Arranged by the School Board

NEARLY 700 persons thronged the corridors of Victoria High School last evening to pay their fees and register for evening technical classes conducted by the School Board and under the direction of Capt. George Breadner, city supervisor of technical education. School Trustees Kenneth Ferguson and C. R. Bishop and George H. Deane, municipal inspector, were present to direct registration and advise students.

In the past all fees were collected by instructors of the various courses, which involved considerable bookkeeping. Under a new system devised by the school board, all those who did not pay in advance at the board office, registered and paid at tables provided in the main corridor at high school. An office will be kept open at the school Monday and Thursday evenings, in order to take care of late registrations.

While the majority of courses will be held on Monday and Thursday evenings, some are to be held Tuesday and Thursday evenings, Tuesdays and Fridays, and a few on Tuesdays, Mondays and Thursdays. Most of the courses are given at Victoria High School, technical instruction at Central Technical School, and pottery at Kingston Street School, where a complete pottery is maintained. For those who cannot attend the night course in dressmaking, a special day class will be held at high school from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock every Thursday afternoon.

JANUARY COURSES
It is anticipated that special courses in geology and prospecting and forestry, under the Provincial Government, will be established in January if sufficient registrations are received.

In keeping with the school board's progressive policy in modernizing the scope of evening technical classes, courses in ornamental horticulture, elementary descriptive astronomy, education and architectural engineering have been established. It is felt these courses will fill a long-felt want in the community.

Trustee Ferguson pointed out yesterday that evening technical classes were specially established to enable young and old of both sexes to continue their education beyond what they received in day schools, and to supplement their training for the successful prosecution of the trade or occupation in which they may be engaged. All classes begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock, and are open to any person over fifteen years of age who is not attending public school. Certificates will be issued at the end of the session to those who have done satisfactory work and who have completed 80 per cent of the total possible attendance. A comprehensive exhibition of work is to be held at the end of all courses next Spring.

An interesting exhibition of lip-reading was given last evening by B. S. H. Tye, who instructs a class in the subject. Mr. Tye showed how special training in following lip movements enabled those hard of hearing to follow a conversation otherwise impossible.

DEBATE COST OF INQUIRY
Saanich Councillors Argue Over Cost of Royal Commission at Meeting

Saanich Council was plunged into a heated debate last night over the recent Royal Commission investigating into police activity connected with a raid on an alleged bootlegging establishment on Pelham Road, Ward Three.

Reeve William Crouch, and Councillors H. D. Coton, Ward Five, and A. G. Lambrick, Ward Three, were drawn into the debate when Whitaker and McElree, local law firm, presented a bill of $367.50 to the council for representing Councillor Lambrick at the investigation. Immediately prior to this the council had approved an account of $160 rendered by Judge A. M. Harper, Vancouver, who conducted the inquiry. $100 had been spent by the municipality for the inquiry.

PAY FOR SUBPOENAS
The council finally agreed to pay $25 for subpoenas issued by the law firm for Councillor Lambrick, as well as the cost of five issued by Chief Allan Rankin on his behalf. It was stated that Chief Rankin had tendered no bill for his counsel fees. The remaining $90, set out as fees owing Whitaker and McElree, was referred to the municipal solicitor for advice.

Councillor W. R. Woods, Ward Four, absent for a series of council meetings while the investigation was being considered, left the chair. He claimed he had no connection with the inquiry and knew nothing of the proceedings.

WITNESSES PRECLUDED
"I object to that. I didn't raise a disturbance. I wanted a thorough investigation. My witnesses were not allowed to appear at the inquiry. But the inquiry was so worded that my witnesses, who would have told of events leading up to the raid, were not allowed to speak," said Councillor Lambrick.

"Why didn't you go before the police commission?" asked Reeve Crouch.

"You never asked me to," answered Councillor Lambrick.

"Why, you come into the council room and said this thing on us, and even want the chief dismissed without a hearing," said the Reeve.

WAS TURNED DOWN
"I wanted a council inquiry but I was turned down," said Councillor Lambrick. "There's lots of rumors around and I'm going to let them ride, my friend, and you'll have to answer them at the end of the year."

"This whole thing is like a volcano ready to burst," said Councillor L. S. Hagan, Ward Six.

Councillor Hagan suggested the subpoena bills be paid for Chief Rankin and Councillor Lambrick, and that legal advice be sought on the paying of Councillor Lambrick's counsel fees.

Dean Issues Appeal To Public to Assist Red Cross Campaign

Case Cited of Settlement of Forty Families Seventy-Two Miles From Nearest Doctor Which Requests Help in Building Hospital

"A chairman of the advisory committee of the Red Cross campaign, I venture to make an eleventh-hour appeal on its behalf to my fellow citizens who have not yet contributed to it. Tomorrow it will close. Its objective is $15,000. I am very sorry indeed to say that the proportion of that sum already given or promised is disappointingly low," said Dean Quinlan, in a statement given to the press yesterday.

"There are few who could not give something," the dean wrote. "If 1000 the supplying of nursing services, medical supplies, outposts, hospitals, clothing and blankets to keep the children warm during the bitter winters experienced in the Far North. The upkeep of the Red Cross Workshop in Victoria is one of the major local activities. The present campaign is serving as a reminder of these peace-time undertakings, so even though the monetary objective is not immediately realized, the committee is confident that the public ultimately will awaken to the responsibility that they should feel.

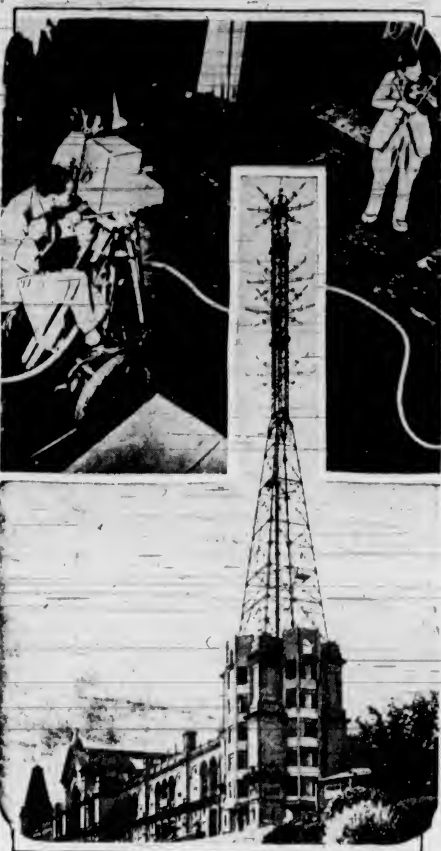

Information was given to The Colonist yesterday about a settlement in British Columbia where, although there are forty families, there is no doctor nearer than seventy-two miles, and no hospital nearer than 110 miles. Seven babies are expected in this settlement during the coming winter. It will require at least two days' journey for any of these mothers to get to hospital, even provided the rough country roads are passable at that time of year.

"We had hoped to be able to open a small hospital there this year," Hugh M. Birch-Jones, British Columbia Provincial commissioner of the Red Cross, said yesterday afternoon in speaking about this condition, "but unless our campaign is successful, we are afraid we cannot take them the help they want. The people up in that settlement have written me a most pathetic appeal for help, saying if we will supply the building materials, the hospital equipment, and the nurse, they will gladly supply the labor locally."

THE CAMPAIGN
The campaign, which was to have closed yesterday, has been extended until the end of the current week, with headquarters at 637 Port Street. After that, subscriptions may be sent to the local headquarters of the society in the Belmont Building. The subscriptions have not come in as well as anticipated during the past few days. In the meantime, however, officers and other workers realize that many of the public are not familiar with the work of the Red Cross Society, either locally, provincially, or in the still wider sense. Its war-time work, of course, is well-known, but its peace-time activities have not been so widely advertised. It had been more quietly carried on.

These consist of helping settlers at "the back of beyond," as intimated in several of the articles that have appeared in connection

Television in England

—Central Press Canadian Photographs.

British radio experts have changed television from a dream of the future to a reality of the present. The British Broadcasting Company, from its London studios, sends out regularly broadcasts by sound and vision to a wide area around London. The top picture shows a studio scene during the television broadcast of a violin recital. Two television cameras are set up in the studio to record the player from different angles; the microphone for recording the music is along on a boom above the principal. The unusual mast shown in the television mast atop Alexandra Palace, home of the British Broadcasting Company in London. The spiky top of the mast is used for distributing the recorded vision, the lower half for the sound effects.

Victoria will be hosts to members of the recently formed Port Alberni Club and a charter will be presented.

Cecil Luckhart, president, presided at the dinner, and Joseph McAllister led the community singing.

LUMBER MILL TO BE BUILT IN VICTORIA

Fred Manning Heads New Business—To Erect Plant On Store Street

FIVE-YEAR LEASE PLANNED BY CITY

Manning Lumber Mills, Limited, today will start construction of a small sawmill on lots 116, 121 and 132 on the west side of Store Street, between Herald and Discovery Streets, according to an announcement made by Acting Mayor James Adam.

The firm is headed by Fred Manning, late of H. R. McMillan Export Company. He has had years of experience in the lumber business and will make his home on Tudor Street.

It is expected fifteen men will be employed in the mill which will cut about 25,000 feet of lumber per day. Next January it is hoped to double the operating crew and increase the cut.

Aldermen R. A. C. Dewar, Andrew McGavin and Archie Willis, lands committee of the City Council, recommended a lease on the property be given to Mr. Manning during a council meeting held on September 14. They suggested a rental of $60 per month for five years with provision for an option to renew the lease for a further five years at a rental to be agreed upon. A lease is being drawn up for approval of the City Council. In the meanwhile a start is being made on the new business.

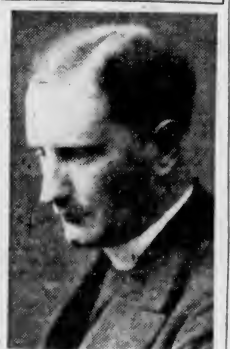

URGES STUDY OF PROBLEMS

Rotary Club Could Review Youth's Difficulties and Assist, Says Speaker

The acute problems facing youth could be studied more by the Rotary Club that youth might be counseled and advised in the right direction, Frank Paulding, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., told members of the club yesterday at luncheon in the Empress Hotel in an address on "What Rotary Can Do to Assist and Counsel Youth."

The world in which youth found itself was changing and was different to the world in which the clubmen grew up, Mr. Paulding said. Economically the world was insecure in the minds of youth, and they felt there was no security in the future for them, he claimed.

This fact promoted drifting and listlessness in youth and they don't care to put their heart and soul into any projects they may undertake. The average young man, said Mr. Paulding, did not feel that he owed anything to God or his neighbor.

REV. A. M. ACHESON, L.L.B., M.A., L.T.S., who has been acting vicar at the Cathedral of St. James for several years, and who will return this week after a three-month visit in England, has accepted a position on the staff of Portsea parish, Portsmouth. He will begin duty next spring. Mr. Acheson-Lyle plans to continue his work here until the end of the year.

CHINESE PASTOR RECEIVES GIFTS

Rev. M. F. Leung, of Presbyterian Church, Is Honored At Reception Here

Rev. M. F. Leung, minister of the Chinese Presbyterian Church, was the guest at a reception held in his honor by his congregation on Wednesday. The occasion marked the twenty-fifth year of his ministry to the Chinese in Victoria.

Mr. Leung, who is a graduate of the Canton Theological College, did considerable mission extension work in China before coming to Canada and was responsible for the opening of six new preaching stations. After a number of years here as missionary-in-charge, Mr. Leung, in 1919, was ordained by the Presbytery of Victoria.

Assisting Mr. Leung in his work is a session of five Chinese, also a very active Women's Missionary Society, as well as a body of young men and women who are rapidly learning to take responsibility in Christian work.

GIVEN WALKING STICK
Many Canadian and Chinese friends were present to congratulate Mr. Leung, who was presented with a silver mounted walking stick and other gifts by Walter Lee, clerk of the session.

The Presbytery of Victoria was represented by the moderator, Rev. James Hyde. Rev. Samuel Lundie brought felicitations from the synod. Rev. Peter McNab also spoke. Mrs. J. Colford brought greetings from the W.M.S. Presbyterial. Mrs. J. A. Kennedy spoke on behalf of the Mission House. Greetings were also read from many parts of Canada where there are Chinese who have come under his ministry.

Rev. David Smith, superintendent of Chinese missions, spoke at length concerning the work under Mr. Leung's care and referred to the success of his ministry and the excellent congregation that had been built up in Victoria—a work that is known for its effectiveness, not only in Canada, but in China.

EXPRESSES THANKS

Mr. Leung, at the close of the service, suitably thanked those present for their interest and reviewed the difficulties and pleasures of his ministry. He particularly expressed his joy at having his son, Solomon Leung, who is studying for the ministry, and a third-year student at McGill, and who made the trip so that he could be present.

Following the meeting those assembled sat down to a supper.

AUSTRALIA'S PREPAREDNESS

Australia's increased defensive programme has been announced in the House of Representatives at Canberra. The Navy is to have an additional vessel, but the type is not yet decided. The armaments of her 8-inch gun cruisers are to be modernized, and the personnel of the seagoing forces is to be increased to 4,290 men, making an increase of 1,050 since 1934. In all $3,237,387 is to be spent on the Navy, and ultimately there will be in commission three cruisers, one fleet leader, two destroyers, two sloops and one survey ship.

The Army expenditure in the Commonwealth is to be $2,948,788. The strength of the permanent military forces is to be increased to 23,000, and a militia strength of 35,000 is to be attained. Coastal armaments of 9.2-inch guns are to be completed and anti-aircraft guns and searchlights will be added.

The new Air Force expansion will involve an outlay of £1,443,652, and three squadrons will be provided for co-operation with the Field Army instead of one as at present, and also a squadron instead of a flight for naval co-operation. In addition there will be five squadrons for co-operation with the fixed defences. Land seaplanes are to be substituted for flying-boats, enabling more aircraft to be purchased. The Air Force personnel is to be increased to 2,263, making an increase of 1,373 since 1934. For the development of civil aviation a sum of $316,000 is provided and £581,463 is to be spent in the extension of munitions supply.

The foregoing programme of preparedness in a Dominion with a population little more than half that of Canada shows the seriousness with which the Commonwealth regards the international situation and illustrates her determination to pull her weight in the defensive measures of the Empire. Australia affords an object lesson to this Dominion.

PURSUIT OF PLEASURE

Such a subject as the psychology of mass entertainment has been engaging the attention of the British Association. In the discussion, Mr. D. W. Harding, of the London School of Economics, analyzed the desire for entertainment, based on a questionnaire to which 215 persons, mostly workers, replied. In the answers there were three main divisions. The first, said Mr. Harding, consisted of those who spoke of needing entertainment most when they were tired or after a day's work, and who seemed to mean a fairly simple tiredness in which there were no very prominent emotional elements. The second class was composed of those who referred to disagreeable states of feeling as stimulating the desire, and these form a large category. Then there are those who believe they suffer from boredom and staleness, from depression arising from loneliness, disappointing work and bad weather. Some people put down the desire for entertainment to irritation, resentment, worry and the conditions of being "bottled up."

There is a division as well consisting of those who want entertainment when they are feeling cheerful, elated or energetic, when their social contacts have been pleasant and stimulating. Thus it appears that entertainment is sought because of the direct satisfaction it offers, or else as a so-called means of escape from worries or responsibilities. Probably the simplest explanation of all of the mass desire to be amused is because amusement affords a gratifying social situation. In entertainment the presence of a crowd seems to be an essential thing. All mankind is more or less gregarious. The extrovert especially seeks society. The introvert may prefer solitude, but he is the exception, and it does not pay to entertain him although he needs such entertainment most.

Probably nothing is gained by such investigations and speculations about the psychology of mass entertainment, because nothing can be done about it. There are varying degrees in the human desire for pleasure. Sometimes these are governed by the character of the occupation followed and the form of desire it takes to fill in the leisure hours. In other words, how does any particular occupation express itself when let loose? This inquiry can be investigated for the purposes of guidance, but it may be doubted if the outcome could be translated into anything useful, because mankind is so constituted as to be averse to taking direction in such matters.

THE CONVERSION OF THIRTY MILLIONS

In the realm of finance the successful management of a conversion loan of thirty millions, whether of pounds or dollars, is an achievement of some note, particularly if the incident is marked by an appreciable change in the interest rate of the new issue. It should be said, however, that in the phrase used above as the caption of a recent news item, the term "conversion" is not intended in a bond-market sense, and the figure of thirty millions has nothing to do with money. To avoid further possible misunderstanding, therefore, let it be said plainly that, as here employed, the term "conversion" is used in a theological sense, and that the thirty millions concerned are men and women.

This startling item of news comes from India, and relates to the depressed classes of that country. The Western World has been troubled in recent years by an unusually large number of self-appointed social reformers with more or less crude schemes for the wholesale improvement of the masses of the people. India, too, has its share of agitators with wild theories, the product of disordered imaginations. It has been proposed that the thirty millions of the depressed classes should be "converted" from Hinduism. One proposal is that they should become Christian. The kind of "conversion" proposed is to be brought about, not by preaching a Christian case to the individual, and a free and sincere response by the individual to that Gospel, but in some other manner which has not been fully explained in the dispatches. In any event the thing is to be done on a large scale and little consideration is to be shown to the preferences of individuals. Another proposal is that they should be converted to Islam, and another is that they had better, on grounds of expediency, embrace the Sikh religion, and "thus remain technically within the Hindu fold."

Mahatma Gandhi, the champion of the Depressed Classes in India, does not like this proposal. He asks what right anyone has to deny to a parish, however dull and stupid he may be, the right to a free choice in the matter of religion. With Gandhi's influence exerted on the other side, the scheme of mass conversion is not likely to prosper. The London Spectator, commenting upon an article in Mr. Gandhi's weekly paper, Harijan, commends the Mahatma's words, "not only to the Hindu leaders, but equally to some Christian leaders who have been too readily attracted by the idea of a mass conversion to Christianity."

NOT WORTH A CONTINENTAL

The term "not worth a continental" was coined in the United States in connection with its first national experiment with printing-press money. The problem arose of how to finance the Revolutionary War, what could be borrowed and paper-money issued for the rest. Between 1775 and 1779 the Continental Congress issued about $240,000,000 in paper. The states or colonies, printed as much. By 1779 a continental dollar was only valued at two or three cents. In Virginia 1,000 paper dollars were valued at one metallic dollar.

"Not worth a continental" will probably soon be applied to Alberta's "prosperity" scrip. Collier's, an American publication, says that the issue of $250,000 in paper may not cause Alberta to run into any serious trouble, because the Province can pay a debt of such a small character. When Social Credit is tried, however, and there is an issue of $250,000,000, or any sum large enough to permit the fulfillment of Premier Aberhart's campaign pledges, then there will be swift proof of the continuing truth of the ancient observation—that you can't make something out of nothing.

THE MIDDLE SEA

For the British Commonwealth, the Mediterranean Sea is a dual role. It is at once a local sea upon whose shores lie a number of British colonies, protectorates and mandated territories, and a link in the main sea route between the United Kingdom and India, East Africa, Australia and the Far East. Gibraltar, Malta and Cyprus have been held under the British flag as strategic strong points, not for their economic importance, not on account of political and racial ties between their inhabitants and those of Great Britain. Historically, our peculiar position in Egypt derives very largely from our anxiety not to relinquish to the Turks the command of the Suez Canal and its approaches; and it may be that our assumption of the mandate for Palestine and Transjordan, and of the protective guardianship of Iraq, was partly inspired by the same motive. Nevertheless, it is well to bear in mind that, once installed in the fortress colonies, or as mandatory power in Palestine, Great Britain owes a duty to their inhabitants to defend them against external aggression as well as internal disruption, and that the new treaty of alliance with Egypt will impose upon us an obligation to protect her in no less exacting, nor morally less binding, than the obligation to help in defending any part of the self-governing Commonwealth.—The Round Table.

WRONG FEELING

A vexation arises, and our expressions of impatience hinder others from taking it patiently. Disappointment, ailment, or even weariness depresses us, and our look or tone of depression hinders others from maintaining a cheerful and thankful spirit. We say an unkind thing, and another is hindered in learning the holy lesson of charity that thinketh no evil. We say a provoking thing, and our sister or brother is hindered in that day's effort to be meek. How sadly, too, we may hinder with our word or act. For wrong feeling is more infectious than wrong-doing, especially the various phases of ill-feeling, gloominess, touchiness, discontent, irritability—do we not know how catching these are?—F. R. Haverkal.

Friendship improves happiness and abates misery by the doubling of joy and the dividing of our grief.—Cicero.

Forest Problem to Go Before Session When House Meets

Lack of Adequate Reproduction of Douglas Fir in Coast Region Causing Concern—Additional Fire Protection Funds Will Be Sought

PROBLEMS of forest conservation and management with far-reaching consequences in British Columbia will be laid before the Legislature at this session, together with renewed requests for adequate fire protection funds, it developed yesterday in circles close to the Government. Slow reproduction of Douglas fir in coastal areas is causing considerable concern.

On top of a special report on the resocking of cut-over lands in the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway belt, the details of which have not been given out yet but which is known to contain a serious challenge to present timber policies, Provincial forestry officials have compiled a comprehensive survey of millions of acres of logged lands in the Pacific Northwest. This data will be placed before the forestry committee of the Legislature, it is expected.

NOT REPRODUCING
E. C. Manning, chief forester, returned this week from an extended visit to Washington and Oregon forests, in company with D. B. Taylor, of the forest protection branch. While he has yet to make his report to the Government, Mr. Manning indicated that in a survey of 5,000,000 acres of cut-over lands south of the border, restocking was negligible on half of the area. Selective logging was seen as useful only to a limited extent, where special conditions permit the use of tractor methods.

It is on the main point of insuring adequate restocking by natural methods that saw changes advocated in the present system may be advanced. Curbing of fire loss is being seen as an important part of any conservation plan. The whole problem will be taken up with the industry in the course of the next few weeks.

ACTION NECESSARY
Without committing the Government to any expression of policy, Mr. Manning commented on his tour, in part, as follows:

"I return home with evidence corroborative of certain trends in forest conditions, which we have been observing in British Columbia, and more than ever convinced that remedial action is necessary. I find that, as in British Columbia, a large portion of the cut-over lands in the Douglas fir region is not reproducing satisfactorily, and in recognition of this the industry and the forest services are taking definite action to promote regeneration and to protect the young growth.

"We should work along similar lines. To do otherwise simply means that we are content to have a crop worth in many cases $100 or more per acre and leave in its place large areas not only devoid of crop but robbed of productivity.

"We found that the system of selective logging as described to date has little to offer the forest in his desire to avoid waste and leave logged-over areas in a productive condition. In theory, it is excellent.

FOREST RECREATION
"I find a growing realization in Washington and Oregon of the value of the forest for recreational purposes. Hitherto forest values have been almost entirely measured in terms of lumber and other wood products.

"In the development of forest policy in British Columbia, the interests of the recreationist, the tourist and the sportsman can be recognized while still ensuring future supplies of an industry which is date has been the largest single factor in the economic development of the province," Mr. Manning declared.

Additional funds to fight fires at their inception; a definite campaign to educate the public in respect to their forests, and round-table conferences with those engaged in the timber industry to promote the best possible plan for the province, are expected, unofficially, to be part of the recommendations to be made by the service when the report is prepared.

CAMERA ART IS ON VIEW

Exhibition of Zeiss Photographs Being Shown at Somer's Gallery

Camera enthusiasts, whether amateur or professional, will find much to interest them in the exhibition of enlarged Zeiss snapshots being shown at Joseph Somer & Sons, Ltd., Government Street, at the present time.

This collection, consisting of about 100 pictures enlarged from tiny 1 in. by 1-1/2 in. to 16 in. by 20 in., gives a remarkable idea of the amazing versatility and sensitivity of the camera. Internationally selected by the Zeiss Photographic Company from snapshots taken by amateurs with the Contax camera, the exhibition includes pictures that illustrate the powers of the machine in recording action and still-life alike. In the former group are shown such rapid-motion subjects as a racing motorcycle, travelling at top speed around a curve; a polo match, in which the horses and riders are seen during an excited pursuit of the ball; an airplane in flight; a girl playing tennis, with the ball just leaving her racket; a dancer; a baller, with the shimmer of sunlight thrown up from the disturbed waters, and various other themes.

PICTORIAL DESIGN
Amateurs are becoming close rivals of professionals in the field of photography, and the Zeiss has made flattering pictures of the artistically selected subjects, the majority of which show a fine sense of pictorial design. The head of an old fisherman is among the best of the portrait studies. There is also a very beautiful study of clouds, two or three pictures of city streets after rain, one delightful study of a sailing ship, another of a rugged mountain top seen from above, as if photographed from an airplane. In all these the detail is astonishingly clear, with sharp focussing.

With the display is shown a number of Zeiss cameras, enlargers, and cutometers for close-up pictures. The exhibition will be on view until Thursday, October 8.

AUSTRALIA IS GREAT MARKET

Col. L. M. Cosgrave Urges Trade Extension Between Canada and Antipodean Country

Drawing attention to Australia's enviable financial situation, Colonel L. M. Cosgrave, Canadian trade commissioner to Australia, at the Empress Hotel yesterday said the Antipodean country offered an excellent market for Canada and for British Columbia particularly, and Canadians should endeavor to further cultivate that market. The commissioner is on his way back to Melbourne, and is interviewing local manufacturers and businessmen.

Outside of South Africa, Australia was the most prosperous nation within the British Commonwealth of nations, Colonel Cosgrave explained. After making provision in her budget for $45,000,000 for defence measures, the country had a net surplus, over and above that of $8,000,000.

At the present time the balance of trade favors Canada with Australia importing $25,000,000 in Canadian products, compared with $7,000,000 of Australian products imported to this Dominion.

The commissioner mentioned the pending departure of Hon. W. D. Fisher, Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce for Australia, to discuss revision of trade agreements between the two countries.

REORGANIZE CENTRE HERE

Choose Officers for Victoria Council, St. John Ambulance Association

Reorganization of the Victoria centre of the St. John Ambulance Association took place last night, with Captain Harold Davenport being elected chairman. Herbert Stokes was named vice-chairman and E. J. Harwood honorary secretary-treasurer. Those chosen for the executive committee were Dr. Richard Felton, L. E. Good, Mrs. W. A. Thorn, Anthony Lumley and A. J. Dallan.

Several years ago the Victoria council ceased to function, the work being taken over by the British Columbia council. It is the purpose of the new council to draft a programme with a view to stimulating greater interest in first aid work in the city. Any one interested in first aid is invited to join the association as a member. The council will open public classes next week, the date to be announced later.

Mr. Dallan, who has been interested in the work for twenty-five years, addressed the meeting. H. W. Edwards, honorary secretary-treasurer of the provincial council, presided.

SCOTT AND GUTHRIE WIN BIG AIR RACE

high wind which blew up a dust storm had reduced the crowd considerably.

Their victory gave them the first prize of $20,000 in the $50,000 award donated for the race by I. W. Schlosinger, South African millionaire.

PLANE IS WRECKED
Accidents put the remaining starters of the original nine planes out of the competition. Flying Officer David Dwyer and C. P. Hugheson crashed near Lake Tanganyika. Their plane was wrecked, but they escaped unhurt.

Captain S. B. Hahn, crashed near Salisbury, South Rhodesia, only 600 miles from his goal.
The other four starters were forced out Tuesday, the first day.

Modesty and casually Scott told the story of the epic 6,500-mile flight. "Really this is just an ordinary job of work," he said. "There were no high spots, no tough spots, not even any very amusing incidents. The weather was perfectly good until we got to Tabora, Tanganyika. Then it got a bit murky and we bumped about a bit."

DESCEND FOR SLEEP
"As we were very tired we decided to descend and have a well-earned sleep at Abercorn, even though we didn't know where anybody else was."

Said Guthrie: "We are jolly glad to be here and jolly glad it's all over. We are terribly bucked at winning, but we are terribly sorry about Hahn's bad luck."

Scott and Guthrie were twenty-five hours ahead of the time set last Spring by Amy Johnson Mollison in her record flight from London to Capetown. But they decided against continuing to the Cape in an endeavor to better her time of three days, six hours and twenty-nine minutes.

The winners' flying time was 52 hours, 56 minutes, 48 seconds, and their average speed 123 miles an hour.

Young Men Are Playing Their Part in Canada
Canada's young men are definitely coming to the fore, shouldering their individual obligations and taking over their share of civic responsibilities with surprising satisfaction. Norman W. Beaton, Vancouver business man, said yesterday at the Empress Hotel. He recently completed a business trip to the East, where he spoke to numerous business men's groups.

Better times have made themselves felt across Canada and given the youth new heart, for they now foresee a future. Mr. Beaton added. The Pacific Coast will, before long, experience greater prosperity than it has ever known before, in the Vancouver man's opinion. He believes Vancouver Island has a great future as a holiday ground, and looks to the day when it will surpass the Hawaiian Islands.

Reading Course Offers Variety For Discussion

Of interest to a large circle of Victoria women will be the arrangement of subjects and speakers for the reading course and current affairs group to be held under the educational committee of the Y.W.C.A. The committee consists of Mrs. W. N. Gunning, Mrs. V. L. Denton, Mrs. H. D. English, Miss Nan Eaton and Mrs. P. B. Scurrah. The reading course of last year had a membership of eighty-seven, with a large attendance each week, and the current affairs group held

Mme. Fahey Will Sing at Empress Tea

Madame Winifred Lugin Fahey has arranged a particularly appealing and interesting programme for all types of music lovers, when she appears as guest artist in the first appearance of the Fall teas at the Empress Hotel, tomorrow afternoon.

With her opening number, "The Nightingale," of Lincoln's Inn, "Overture," it includes "The Answer" (Terry), Arditi's magnificent "Il Bacio" and Massenet's "Ouvre tes Yeux Bleus," and concludes with two of her own most popular and charming compositions, "Beware of the Wiles of Charlotte" from "When Dreams Come True," and "I Will Love You Always."

Madame Fahey possesses a dramatic soprano of superb quality and range, and is equally happy in opera and concert. Her programme for tomorrow shows the amazing versatility of her musical capacity.

As her popularity in her native Victoria is as assured as in her adopted Toronto, the announcement of her appearance had barely appeared in the press when bookings for the Empress tea hour began immediately, and those who wish to hear her tomorrow should telephone their reservations without delay.

Automatic Volume Control
This feature serves to counteract fading, by automatically maintaining a constant volume (or loudness) at the loud speaker. This means that you can change from Victoria to Seattle stations without having to turn on your volume.

Adjustable Selectivity
If a Radio is designed to have too much selectivity, it will only reproduce the low notes, and the high notes either absent or distorted. Selectivity is essential, however, to separate one station from the next. Adjustable selectivity keeps distortion down on the strong stations and also allows you to tune in the very faint ones.

Tone
The tone on these Radios can be adjusted to suit the acoustical conditions in each home, and also to suit the tastes of the listener.

Dial
The dial has been placed on the top edge of the cabinet, so that tuning is just as easy standing or sitting. It is also a straight line, so that the position of all stations is visible at the same time.

Let us talk over the features of the new 1937 Majestic. As radio specialists—we are qualified to eliminate guess work in your choice of a radio.

Founding of Colony to Be Celebrated at Hotel

At the meeting of the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter I.O.D.E. yesterday afternoon, it was decided to again celebrate the founding of the Colony of British Columbia. A tea-musical will be held on November 10 at the Empress Hotel, in this way keeping fresh the memory of Sir James Douglas, who was governor and commander-in-chief of Vancouver's Island and asserted his jurisdiction over the Mainland. The new colony of British Columbia was established at Fort Langley on November 19, 1866.

Miss Crease expressed the satisfaction of the chapter in that the recent Mrs. Colin Cummins, had been recently honored by Columbia W.A., being made a life member of the Dominion W.A. to the Church of England in Canada.

EDUCATIONAL REPORT
Mrs. Pular, educational secretary, gave an interesting report. She said that the I.O.D.E. bursary fund amounting to $89,457.63 will be expended by 1941, as both capital and interest were now being spent. All children of returned soldiers will have passed scholastic training age by that time. There will still be the perpetual fund of $20,000, the interest of which is used for post-graduate scholarships.

Mrs. Pular presented First Aid certificates to the Sir James Douglas School at their special session on September 17. The Illustrated London News presented each month to the school proves of great value.

ROMANTIC STORY IS AT DOMINION

Francis Lederer and Ann Sothern Play Leading Roles in "My American Wife"

The romantic story of a titled nobleman who marries an American girl, and then sets about to prove himself a better American than she is, and a better cowboy than she is, is the story of "My American Wife," presented in "My American Wife," Paramount picture starring Francis Lederer and lovely Ann Sothern. The film is to open today at the Dominion Theatre.

Giving a "reverse angle twist" to the theme of the wealth-seeking Old World aristocrat and the title-seeking American girl, the film introduces Lederer and Sothern after their marriage. Lederer finds Arizona, his bride's home, to be his liking. He wants to be a rancher and make his living from the soil. His wife, however, is led by her mother into making capital of Lederer's social prestige. She forgets her Arizona background and insists upon keeping her husband in braids and medals. The romance almost hits the rocks before the two are reunited.

ATLAS Keys-Luke makes his THEATRE fourth screen appearance as Charlie Chan in the new Twentieth Century-Fox picture, "Charlie Chan at the Race Track," currently at the Atlas Theatre. Warner Oland, of course, portrays Charlie Chan, with the cast also featuring Helen Wood, Thomas Beck, Alan Dinehart and Gavin Muir.

COLUMBIA W. C. Fields is now THEATRE appearing on the screen in "The Old-Fashioned Way." Baby LeRoy, Joe Morrison and Judith Allen are also in the cast. Also on the same bill is "Elmer the Great," a clever baseball comedy starring Joe E. Brown.

OAK BAY Joan Crawford has THEATRE never been more glamorous than in the new Twentieth Century-Fox picture, "I Live My Life," showing today and tomorrow at the Oak Bay Theatre. The story is a novel, dramatic and at times uproariously funny. Brian Aherne, the distinguished British actor, is cast in the role of an archaeologist who is a "woman hater."

PLAZA A whole ocean liner THEATRE was needed for one musical number. In "Colleen," a Warner Bros. comedy, now at the Plaza Theatre. It shows the captain dancing on the bridge, girls dancing on the decks, stewards and stewardesses dancing in the companionways, and even the firemen, with shovels, dancing down in the stokehold.

AMUSEMENTS

On the Screen

CAPITOL TO PRESENT NOTED FILM TOMORROW

There are only about five actors in Hollywood who can wear costumes, according to Mervyn LeRoy, Warner Bros. director.

He named as two of them, Fredric March and Donald Woods, both of whom are appearing in the Warner Bros. picture "Anthony Adverse," showing at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow.

LeRoy explains that there are many more actors who look well in costume, but who cannot seem to wear them with easy naturalness. "Fredric March," said LeRoy, "is really my first choice. In 'Anthony Adverse' he has twenty-nine changes of costume in the period from 1775 to 1801. That's a test for any actor. He wears them all as naturally as he would wear modern tweeds. Woods, also, has the same superb lack of self-consciousness."

Judge Helps Avoid Delay In Wedding

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 1 (AP).—To avoid delaying their wedding, City Judge A. H. Elliott consented to Ruth Peterson's suggestion she share with Richard Soley, twenty-two, her prospective husband's fifteen-day jail term for reckless driving, making it seven and a half days for each.

So the young woman quit her job in a beauty shop and reported to police headquarters daily for eight hours of work as a typist in the identification bureau. Soley, a taxi-driver, did regular tasks around the station. They completed the sentence today.

TAX SALES OF NANAIMO LESS

Definite Improvement Shown In Up-Island City—Rush To Pay Up

NANAIMO, Oct. 1.—Yesterday was the last day for the payment of taxes to save property from the 1936 tax sales and all day the city hall staff were busy accepting last-minute payments.

Figures of previous years show that there is a definite improvement in the city regarding the payment of taxes. As a result of the 1934 tax sales, ninety-two properties came into the possession of the city. In the 1935 tax sales this number was reduced to forty-eight. During 1936 the city has disposed of forty-one properties that had reverted to them in previous years. This is a large increase over other years.

It will not be definitely known for several days how many properties will go into the 1936 tax sale, but it is anticipated that the number will be substantially less than in previous years.

Has Leg Broken By Car on Ferry

VANCOUVER, Oct. 1 (AP).—For years Donald Harry moved unscathed through heavy automobile traffic on city streets, but when he stepped aboard the North Vancouver ferry today he relaxed his usual precautions. An automobile lurched, caught him between it and another vehicle, and broke his leg.

Toronto Meet Is Shown in Current Edition of News

THE roar of speed boats as they flash by the marking buoy, the plunge of the champion swimmers as they take to the water in search of victory or defeat, and the thunderous roar of the applauding crowds are brought to the Dominion Theatre in the current edition of the news, which opens today. The scene is Toronto in the midst of the great aquatic sports which drew thousands to view them.

Other scenes are brought from Boulder City, when the famous Boulder Dam is utilized to put the big power plant into action. Beauty contests, aviation feats, shots of the devastating forest fire in California and other shots of news and adventure make this reel outstanding.

ARGENTINE CITIZEN EXECUTED IN SPAIN

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 1 (AP).—The Foreign Office was informed tonight by its charge d'affaires in Madrid that an Argentine citizen, Fernando Jaime Cruz, had been executed in Spain.

The Argentine representative at Madrid was instructed to seek an indemnity and to try to obtain Cruz's body.

TO REGULATE SPORT FISHING

Nanaimo Fish and Game Body Advocates Limiting Weight of Sinkers

NANAIMO, Oct. 1.—The meeting of the Nanaimo and District Fish and Game Association this evening endorsed a resolution of the Saanich Anglers' Association, who will recommend to the Game Department that sport fishing, with leaded lines, leads of over five pounds in weight be prohibited in salt water which has been set aside for sport fishing only.

A letter was received from the game commission stating that in reply to a request from the local association, the question of liberating mountain goat on the island would be looked into. The letter explained that years ago mountain goat sport fishing, with leaded lines, leads of over five pounds in weight be prohibited in salt water which has been set aside for sport fishing only.

The local association had written a letter of protest to the Department of Public Works asking why an appropriation of $5,000 had been withdrawn for work on the Nanaimo Lakes Road.

This evening the association was informed by a letter from A. Dixon, chief engineer, that the Department of Mines did not approve of the money being spent on what was not regarded as a "mining road," therefore the appropriation had been withdrawn.

OAK BAY ASKED TO MAKE RULING

Saanich Council Is Ready For Action on Bowker Creek Project

What action Oak Bay intends to take on the Bowker Creek drainage proposal will be sought by the Saanich Council, that body decided last night in tabling a request for action on the project by the Gordon Head Current Events Club.

Last year a joint proposal of Victoria and Saanich called for Oak Bay to pay for a share of the work. The area floods annually and was covered by water during the heavy floods of last January and in January, 1935, the council was told. Oak Bay failed to act on the scheme, and held up Victoria and

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

WORST PLAYED HAND OF YEAR
In these enlightened days, when every club, every social gathering indeed, has its full quota of contract experts, it is no novelty to see a well played hand. And I confidently look forward to the day when the worst played hand of the year will be a Vienna coup as a simple little play to be taken in one's stride, hardly more exciting than a finesse.

But until that time, unfortunately for our need of humility, we won't have to fear the boredom that comes from perfection. To witness that statement, allow me to present the worst-played hand of the year.

The bidding:

North's jump bid in diamonds was better than a double raise of partner's suit, because it gave a mild alarm-trip at a convenient stage. Had North bid three spades, and South four, North would have been entirely raised on his next turn, the question being whether to pass, or to go past the game level with an asking bid of other type of slam-try.

West didn't like the sound of the bidding very much. It appeared to him that it would take a miracle to defeat the contract. Almost hesitantly, he opened the ace of clubs and it turned out to be a wonderful choice.

In my opinion, West should have shifted to a low heart at the second lead, with the prayer that declarer lacked the queen and would guess wrong. Not that he should guess wrong after the two club vulnerable overall, dummy's king should be put up without a second's hesitation.

Farmer Brown's Boy Forgets His Lunch

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Farmer Brown's boy has nimble fingers. They fairly flew as he picked the luscious blueberries up in the Old Pasture. Not one did he put in his mouth, because—well—because he knew that if he put one in he would put two in, and if he put two in he would put three in. In short, he knew that if he once tasted them he would fill his stomach before he had his lunch, and that wasn't what he had come for. So he gave his mouth firmly and thought of that berry pie his mother had promised him. Thinking of that pie and how it would taste made it easier not to think of the berries themselves. And all the time he picked and picked as fast as ever he could, and little by little the pile filled.

When I've got it full and heap-so he didn't wait to take so much as a bite of one of those thick sandwiches, but started after his precious berries.

He had just lifted his dripping face for breath when he heard a of them had wandered over where he had left his berries. "It would be just my luck to have one of the stupid things upset that pile of berries," I guess I better go look after them," he muttered. Now Farmer Brown's boy believes in doing a thing when you first think of it. So he didn't wait to take so much as a bite of one of those thick sandwiches, but started to look after his precious berries. He had worked so hard to get them to take any chance of losing them.

Now it just happened that that very day when Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's boy had decided to go berrying in the Old Pasture someone else had decided to have a look around up there. It was Old Man Coyote. He had been promising himself for some time that he would run up there and see if he couldn't surprise old Jed Thumper, the big grey Rabbit, who, you know, was the father of little Mrs. Peter Rabbit. But old Jed Thumper was not to be surprised. Old Man Coyote had been hunting a long time before he found old Jed Thumper, and then he was safe in his brier castle. Hot, ired and disappointed. Old Man Coyote decided he must have a drink and headed for the very spring where Farmer Brown's boy had planned to eat his lunch. He got there just in time to see Farmer Brown's boy disappearing among the bushes on his way to look after his berries.

Now old Man Coyote has a wonderful nose and it told him sure that Farmer Brown's boy really had gone. Then he followed that wonderful nose of his straight to the flat stone where Farmer Brown's boy had left his lunch. Old Man Coyote's eyes glistened as he saw the two thick sandwiches. Alarmed before you could say "Jack Robinson" he had bolted them down, not having so much as a crumb. Then as noiselessly as he had come he disappeared, licking his chops and grinning wickedly. "I guess," said Old Man Coyote to himself, "that Farmer Brown's boy is going to be surprised."

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

AN EXPLANATION OF SOME CASES OF MIGRAINE

Just as Hay fever, asthma and eczema have been found to be due in many cases to sensitiveness to certain foods and other substances, so it is believed now that migraine—those awful headaches—are also due in many cases to a sensitiveness to various substances. That many of these sufferers with migrating work, hard mentally and physically have been noted, but there are just as many who work just as hard mentally and physically who are not afflicted with migraine. It is only recently that research workers have been able to tell us something about what is occurring under the skull during one of these attacks of migraine. Just as an attack of angina pectoris causes a spasm or partial closing of the bloodvessels feeding or nourishing the heart muscle, resulting in a severe vice-like pain under the breastbone, so also a spasm occurs in the region of the large-sized arteries and veins in the brain. This spasm or partial closing of the vessels is then followed by a dilation or widening or opening up of the arteries and veins, causing such a swelling that the brain seems to be too large for the bony skull.

Dr. Alfred M. Goldman, Memphis, Tenn., in the Journal of Allergy, describing a case under this category, states: "For twenty-four hours before the headache comes on the patient is languid; her complexion at first is sallow; but after a time her face appears blanched and a well-defined pallor is noted before the onset of the pain. The pain begins over the right eye, gradually spreading over the right side of the head. She avoids light and all noises. As the pain becomes severe, vomiting follows. The pallor subsides and the face appears flushed. The process continues from twelve to twenty-two hours and then gradually disappears. When the attack passes over she goes into a deep sleep, apparently exhausted."

This patient was found to be sensitive or allergic on skin-testing to wheat, milk, cheese, barley, corn, celery, lettuce, parsley, egg-fish, lobster, crab, oyster, scallop, shrimp, almond, pecan, squash, cabbage, cantaloupe, coconut, ginger, grapefruit, chicken feathers, duck feathers, goose feathers and dust. This appears to be a large list of substances to which the patient was allergic, but Dr. Goldman states that she was relieved of her symptoms by treatment from the allergic standpoint—omitting certain foods, avoiding certain substances, and gradually building up a resistance to these substances.

REPUDIATION NOT SOLUTION

Rev. Robert Connell, M.P.P.,
Derides Alberta Policies
As Futile

In the second of a series of speeches delivered on the Mainland this week, Rev. Robert Connell, leader of the Opposition in the British Columbia Legislature, came out bluntly against repudiation "as any short-cut to financial stability."

"The financial condition of this Province constitutes one of at least of the most serious problems the people of British Columbia have to face. Ultimately, it demands expert treatment by persons who are technically familiar with the intricacies of national and international finance."

NO EASY WAY

"There are a number of 'easy' solutions floating around in people's minds, short-cut ways to financial stability. All that I have come across seem to fail because they do not take into consideration all the factors involved, such as, for example, the existing ownership of wealth-producing mechanism or the inevitability with which the burden of taxation upon it is passed on to the consuming public."

"The most immediate objection to many of these schemes is that they persistently overlook the limitations of Provincial powers. British Columbia is not a self-governing unit like New Zealand. The issue of currency and the control of banking and finance generally is the prerogative of the Dominion as a whole."

FINANCIAL EXPERIMENT

"Such experiments as that being carried on in the Province of Alberta, require for their authority the consent of the Federal Government, whether expressed formally or by consent, as appears to be the state of affairs so far in that Province. It must be clearly understood that there are definite limitations and that so-called challenges to capitalism by financial experiment whether by the use of scrip of any kind or by repudiation in any degree of financial obligations must in the long run, if not immediately, result in fatal conflict with the Dominion Government."

"As in so many other things in life, the very ease of repudiation as a solution suggests a weakness. A great deal of our debt is owing to quite ordinary people and represents savings for one purpose or another of people who have under-

No letter to the editor will be accepted except over the proper signature and address of the writer. This rule admits of no exception. No letter should exceed 200 words (see inside).

A SEPARATE PROVINCE

Sir—A very worthy movement is at present afoot to create Vancouver Island a separate province. This is a most commendable object and should be desirable to every intelligent citizen. This will prove a big job and worthy of every effort, but in order that we may demonstrate we shall be able to tackle the bigger job, some desire should be shown on the part of the powers that be to put in effect that statute which states "no office or any firm in which he may have an interest shall be allowed to contract for profit in any work for the municipality in which he holds office."

No law could be more flagrantly disregarded in this province than the passage just quoted. Should this law become effectively applied, we would have made a great stride toward cleaning up what is now a most nauseating atmosphere, and not a few extra seats on school boards and councils.

ECONOMICS AND WAR

Sir—May I be permitted to correct the errors of commission and omission in Mr. Petnick's letter in today's issue of your valuable paper. It is, of course, quite unimportant how Mr. Petnick spells my name; his mistake is quite natural to an unacquainted person. It is, however, important that he should not credit me with words I did not write. So I must call his attention to the fact that I did not write "the C.C.F. could now go straight ahead to the sea by sea denial."

Those seas are already occupied by those who consider that might is right, and I should be the last person in the world to suggest that that is the creed of Socialism. Mr. Petnick takes an unwarranted liberty with my text by adding fulminating fragments of his own imagination. With quotations from Mr. Averil, he takes just the opposite course, omitting the very essence of its meaning. Mr. Averil did write, it is true, "that he and those who thought as he did would be forced to join with Fascists and others in opposing Communism," and he added "by force if necessary."

Mr. Petnick leaves these words conveniently out. In his concluding paragraph, Mr. Petnick makes reference to Spain—and forgets to mention that the government of that distressed country was duly elected in a constitutional manner by a much larger majority than the Liberals were given in British Columbia—and is now being ousted "by force, if necessary," to use Mr. Averil's benign utterance.

The capitalists' often expressed horror of bloodshed seems to depend on a great deal on whose blood is shed. Whilst they profess indignation at the execution of Russians accused of treachery to the Government of that country, they rejoice in the victories of the Spanish rebels and utterly ignore the foul and unforfeitable murder of innocent Ethiopians, fighting bravely in defence of their own land.

Fighting is a release of human nature into its primitive bestiality. Under a sane and humane economic system "force would never be necessary."

A CORONATION CELEBRATION

Sir—The newspapers and public officials in the past few weeks or so have proudly broadcast that Victoria has this year been blessed with an exceptional tourist invasion, therefore, it can naturally be assumed that the business of this city, and of the people in general, has more or less financially profited.

For this result, Victorians must, of course, take off their hats to that wide-awake publicity department. Yet there still remains a great deal between what has been done, and what may be done, if all were civic-minded every waking hour. If everyone would be as vigilant as the publicity officials of the welfare of this city, poverty and distress would be greatly reduced.

It is acknowledged, however, that it is the exception rather than the rule, for many of us to look ahead to a spirit of co-operation, we do so love to procrastinate.

With these opening remarks, may I ask your indulgence in granting somewhat more space than is usually allowed letter writers, to put forth an idea, which I hope Victorians will get behind 100 per cent, and by doing so not only be proud of their efforts, but at the same time create work for the unemployed.

If my information is correct many parts of the British Empire are even now preparing plans for appropriate celebrations in connection with the coronation of our King.

What does Victoria intend to do, and when will a start be made? Will this city just wait to see what others are doing? England is doing things already; other parts of our Empire are also preparing. Does Victoria, proudly claiming to be a part of Old England, want to be worthy of that title? If so, it should get busy right now.

Our cousins across the line will expect much of this city; they will eagerly watch to see what is being done; if this city fails to live up to its boast, what will they think?

Can this city do something worthwhile, something in the way of a wonderful celebration that all can be proud of? I think it can. A start should be made at once, however, a meeting of citizens called—a committee appointed—say, the Victoria Coronation Celebration Committee, not too large, but with power to add to its number when necessary. For a worthy celebration, funds, of course, will be necessary, and all should consider it an honor to contribute.

The committee might first work out a plan whereby the business houses would be contacted; their contributions would vary, of course, according to their volume of business. A completed canvass would give the committee a rough idea of what money it could rely upon; then the Provincial Government, the Canadian Pacific Railway, the British Columbia Electric Railway, and other industries should be contacted, pointing out to them what our business people had guaranteed to do.

Until the Provincial Government, etc., had been approached, donations from the business houses might be held in abeyance, and when necessary to call them in they might be made as monthly instalments, if so desired.

After all this a general appeal should be made to the public. Knowing the approximate sum of money available from business, Government, and industries, the committee should then work out plans for the decoration of the city. Bunting of course would predominate, but keeping in mind the unemployed, such things as crowns, evergreen streamers, heraldic shields, colored lighting elements should be considered material for same purchased locally and the finished articles made therefrom.

made queen of these celebrations), decorated floats from schools, depicting nursery rhymes, decorated floats entered by business houses, the naval and military forces, the patriotic organizations and fraternal lodges, Boy Scouts, decorated cars, bands, etc., would all tend to make up a splendid parade.

Many of these ideas could be made competitive. Then school children might be trained for a mass choir to render suitable songs of the homeland. This would prove a very effective ceremony on the steps of the Parliament Buildings. It would be a splendid idea to have the school children kept well to the front in all of these celebrations.

With decorated streets, buildings adorned with bunting and flags, and where possible, flood-lighted, decorated store windows, and each and every one of its citizens all doing their utmost to make these celebrations an occasion to be remembered, thousands will flock here to help this city enjoy it all. England will be "merrie"—will Victoria?

In conclusion, permit me to point out that Victoria advertises herself as a part of Old England on a pleasure island. Will this city live up to that during the coronation celebrations? I hope she will.

So let's go, Victoria; let the necessary machinery be now oiled up and started send the news out North, South, East and West, that this city invites the world to visit her to celebrate with her and help her do homage to the world's most loved monarch, King Edward VIII.

SECOND GAME OF WORLD SERIES CARDED TODAY

Second-Place Teams Face Stiff Matches In Tomorrow's Play

Everton, Portsmouth and Stoke City, First Division Eleven, Have Strong Opposition—Scottish League Leadership in No Danger

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Derby County has a good opportunity this week to consolidate its position at the top of the English Football League. The Midlands have the advantage of a home game, while two of its three rivals play on "foreign" soil.

Brentford, holder of seventh place in the league table, visits Derby, but the pace-setting squad is at the top of its form and should capture both points. In second place, with 16 points, are the United's rivals, Everton, Portsmouth and Stoke City. Everton will provide an upset if it lowers the colors of Sunderland, last season's champion team, and Portsmouth is in for a tight game against Chelsea at Stamford Bridge. Stoke City entertains Manchester City, but is by no means sure of victory.

A big battle is likely at Old Trafford where Manchester United, newly promoted to the premier league, enters Arsenal. The Gunners are likely to field an unchanged team, but Manchester is bringing in Rowley among the forwards. The veteran performed the hat-trick for the United's reserve team in a mid-week game.

Bolton Wanderers and Leeds United, tailenders, are not likely to get out of the cellar. The Wanderers welcome the return of Finney, their captain and left half, but will find Wolverhampton a tough proposition. Leeds plays Huddersfield, another Yorkshire team, and one of the strongest in the league.

DROPS INTERNATIONALS
Aston Villa treated football enthusiasts to a real surprise this week. A couple of defeats have sent the erstwhile First League down to third place and Jimmy Hogan, new manager of the team, decided to drop five players, including the internationals, Cunningham, Astley and Hodgson, from this week's lineup. The Villans with ten points are two behind the leading Bury outfit and entertain Coventry City at Villa Park.

Burnley has signed on Miller and Stein, Everton's reserve left wing, and the pair will play for the Turf Moor club against Southampton in an away game.

BUCKLEIGH IS MADE FAVORITE

Lord Glanely's Four-Year-Old Shortest Odds in Cesarewitch Stakes

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Lord Glanely's four-year-old Buckleigh, winner of the Doncaster Cup last month, tonight was established as favorite for the Cesarewitch Stakes, one of the more important autumn handicaps, to be run over two and a quarter miles at Newmarket, October 14. Buckleigh was quoted at 9 to 1 in the fall of odds at the Victoria Club, followed by A. Boazman's Newtown Ford, another winner at Doncaster, and Lady Helen McCallum's Avondale, at 100 to 1. Lord Glanely's Chrysler II, at 22 to 1; Captain Lionel Montagu's Hobbit and Marshal Field's Sutorin, at 25 to 1; J. A. De Rothschild's Romy and the Duke of Norfolk's Bel Wethal, at 33 to 1, and H. Hedges's Fox and Pierre Wertheimer's Prince Achille, at 40 to 1.

RAN SECOND
Avondale, an eight-year-old, ran second to Newtown Ford in the Rufford Abbey Handicap, at Doncaster, over two and a quarter miles, the Cesarewitch handicap. Chrysler II won at one and a half miles in the Alexander Handicap.

For the Cambridge Stakes, to be run at Newmarket, October 28, Sir Abe Bailey's Dan Bulger, who was close up third in the Doncaster Handicap, Handicap, established favorite at 100 to 1, followed by Lady Rall's Finalist, at 15 to 1; the Earl of Harwood's Aldine, at 100 to 1; J. V. Rank's Criss and A. Sainsbury's Noble Turk, at 22 to 1; Captain P. G. A. Harvey's Commander III, at 28 to 1; W. Barnes's Harina, at 33 to 1, and J. Hanes's Stone Ginger, at 40 to 1.

The Windsor Cup draw for players of twenty-seven handicaps and over will be made on October 23. Three-quarters of difference in handicaps will be allowed. The matches will be played off each following week.

HENRY BAKER

HUBIE SMITH

Here are three stalwarts of the North Shore Indians' lacrosse team, winners of the British Columbia title, who will meet the Orillia Terriers tonight at Toronto. Henry Baker, Indians' goalie, almost a team, in himself, has never been in more brilliant form. He practically defeated New Westminster Salmonbellies single-handed in the British Columbia series, turning away the toughest shots with apparent ease and breaking even since. Hubie Smith, fleet-footed Six Nations centre, is hard to stop when he starts boring in. He is also a decidedly useful team man, feeding his wings skillfully and drawing out the opposition, neatly. Oscar Bomberry, another star imported from Eastern Canada, has had a wonderful season playing home for the British Columbia champions, and promises to make things plenty tough for the Terriers in the play-off.

MISS BARTON ADVANCES TO SEMI-FINALS

British Golf Champion Remains in Running for U.S. Open Crown

SUMMIT, N.J., Oct. 1.—American golf seemed headed today for its second international final of the year as Pamela Barton, stocky British titleholder, and three Americans advanced to the semi-finals of the United States women's golf championship.

Equally probable was the prospect the nineteen-year-old titleholder Miss Barton might become the first invader in twenty-three years to carry the trophy across the big water-hole.

Pam was joined in the penultimate round by Marion Miller, youngest of Lexington, Ky.; Kathryn Hemphill, who only a few years ago was the number one player on the Columbia, S.C. High School golf team, and the veteran Maureen O'Connell, of Englewood, N.J., twice Canadian open champion.

Both were trapped at the 152-yard tenth hole while Bea exploded far past the cup. Pam also won the twelfth with a bogey, five when Miss Barrett took three putts and they halved the next three. All told, the London lass was four over par for the distance.

NOTTINGHAM, England, Oct. 1.—Nottingham and Walsall drew 3-3, in a Third Division, Southern Section English Football League game, played here today.

VERNON GOMEZ AND SCHUMACHER NAMED FOR HURLING DUTY

Rain Halted Yesterday's Scheduled Fixture—Delay Expected to Favor Giants—Larger Attendance Expected With Prospects of Warmer Weather—Roosevelt Will Attend

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The combination of two days of increasing heavy rain and an unusually high tide, blocking the drainage facilities of the Polo Grounds, brought a postponement of the second game of the world series. President Roosevelt will view the game at the Polo Grounds tomorrow, instead of the third contest at the Yankee Stadium, as he originally planned. It was the first postponement of a world series game in eight years.

The delay appeared to fortify the pitching advantage already gained by the Giants, as a result of Carl Hubbell's masterful triumph over the Yankees in the mud and rain of yesterday's opening game.

MANN CUP LACROSSE FINALS WILL START TONIGHT

Orillia Terriers Will Battle Indians for Coveted Silverware

Gutted Stick Aggregations Will Open Five-Game Series for Canadian Championship—Maple Leaf Gardens to Be Scene of Battle—Eastern Squad Held as Favorites

TORONTO, Oct. 1 (P)—The Indians played lacrosse yesterday. They rested today in preparation for the games. Members of the Orillia executive are endeavoring to have one of the final games played here but they have not been advised as to the result of their request.

The chunky Paul, coach of Vancouver's North Shore Indians, Western champions, figures his band has a good chance to upset Orillia Terriers here tomorrow night in the first game of inter-sectional finals, and go on to win the best-of-five series.

They took in a theatre this afternoon, and some of them attended a wrestling card tonight. Tomorrow, by edict of Chief Paul, they rest until game time.

The team is made up of eight redskins from the small Squamish reserve, and seven from Six Nations reserve at Brantford, Ont. Box of the Squamish boys—Moses Joseph, Dominic Baker, Joe Johnson and Harry Norman—have never been East before.

Terriers Favorites—Trainer Fred Brown—his a paleface—claims the Coast team was never really extended in winning the Western title. He believes, however, that if any team can make it tough for the Indians, it's those paleface champions from Orillia.

Among the British Columbia players are two chiefs of the Squamish tribe, Chief Stan Joseph and his brother, Chief Joseph Moses, is thirty-four and has the hardest shot on the team. Stan, a defenceman, is thirty-three and has been playing twenty years.

Veterans of the band are Louie Lewis and Ray Baker, each thirty-six. Baker has been playing lacrosse for his tribe twenty-three years. Henry Baker, the goalkeeper, is serving his fifteenth year with the tribemen. He was a member of the Canadian team at the Los Angeles Olympic Games in 1932.

Paul regards the Terriers highly—as highly as every other critic who admires the way the Orillia team, wrecked after its second national lacrosse team ever assembled, is confident we have the greatest Indian outfit, but you can't be sure. This series will tell us that.

Occasionally a strong Indian team has cropped up—we used to have them on the Coast, some were in Ontario. Yet the Mann Cup always eluded us—until now.

ORILLIA, Ont., Oct. 1 (P)—In fine fettle, the Orillia Terriers, Dominion lacrosse champions, will leave here tomorrow, at least fifteen strong, to meet the Squamish Indians in the Mann Cup finals at Toronto.

"Pipe" Bain, who injured his arm at the end of the scheduled season and was unable to take part in the Eastern Canadian finals, after Orillia won the Ontario title, will still be on the sidelines when the Terriers take the floor tomorrow night.

Also missing is Don Williams, who left before the finals were reached to play hockey in England. Dick Walsh, centre, is suffering from a cold but will take his place in the lineup.

Donkey Baseball Delights Packed House at Willows

Hilarious Exhibition as Gyro Club And Cox's Army Battle to Draw on Burros

Eighteen boys went off the burro and back to the filament bottles, after last night's opening donkey baseball game sponsored by the Gyro Club, when the clubmen eked out a 1-0 draw with General Bill Cox's Army, before a packed house at the Horse Show Building last night. The boys will trot out their mules again tonight for the second game in this bucking and balking series. The third and final game will be played Saturday.

From the opening "play ball" by Umpire Al McGregor, it was a case of who could stay atop his bucking mount for the tour of the bags. Most of the players perched too fast on the donkeys' rumbly seats and, as a result, would end up in the sawdust, nine times out of ten. Some of the mules, in their playful fashion, strode calmly over the fallen gladiators, as they took the notion to visit other parts of the spacious lot.

COAX MOUNTS WITH CARROTS—Alec Straith pulled his mount across the plate in the third inning for the Gyros' only run, while Bobby Ross, Army catcher, coaxed his donkey down the home stretch with a carrot for the tying run in the same inning.

The gaily-bedecked militiamen were robbed of a sure victory when one foot from the plate, six members of the Army were pulled and pushed, but "Rebs" rocky mountain mule held his ground until Louie Glazen, Gyro first sacker, scooped up the ball and ambled over to tag him out.

OFFICIALS OPEN EXHIBITION—After the official opening by Alderman Archie Wills and Inspector Bob Owens, the teams swung into action.

With one down, Waldo Skillings laced out a hot one. He boarded his mount, but spent more time in the sawdust than on the donkey's back. Mowat grunted his mule by the back legs and wheeled him into second for the putout. Fitz chased Glazen all over the infield to finally make the putout after the first baseman had a bingle. Pete Sallan, who was completely out of step, appeared to be going places, for the Army, but ended up on the underside of the mule too often Pete lasted only one inning and then went to the showers, to be replaced by Bunny Cox.

COX IN KICKING DUEL—When the Army went to the plate again, "General" Bill Cox put up a spirited kicking duel with his mount, both were finally forced to back down. Straith then topped the bags for the clubmen, which was followed by Bobby Ross' tying marker for the Army.

By no means a sport for slaves, the game provided as many rough moments as a box lacrosse fixture when the mounts resorted to a little rear footwork. Bud Hocking was the victim of one of these attacks, receiving a hard kick in the stomach, Lynn Patrick, Rangers' hockey star, also received a nasty bump when his mount set him down none too gently. The remainder of the ball games escaped with bruises and minor shaking-ups.

Bunny Cox was the winner of the special "donkey race" when he ploughed to the tape after overtaking the field. Mowat looked like a sure winner, but his mule again balked a few feet from the finish line while the rest of the field went past him.

ANDERSON AND FRALEY MEET IN MAIN BOUT

Grapplers Make Third Appearance Here—Four More Outsiders

One of the classiest bone-bending displays ever served up to local followers of the mat pastime will be presented tomorrow evening at the Tillamook gymnasium, when six swashy Goliaths swarm over the ropes to do battle in the three headline bouts. Promoter Fred Richardson announced last night that final arrangements have been completed to show these outside topnotchers in the local ring.

The opener, which will bring together two local boys, is scheduled for 8:45 o'clock.

POPULAR GRAPPLERS

Two Numa Anderson, burly Seattle Swede, will match holds with Pat Fraley in the main event. This is the third appearance these two lads have made together in the Tillamook gym and should result in some first-class wrestling. Evenly matched and tipping the scales at well over the 200-pound mark, this pair of gladiators waste no time in swinging into the spirit of the fray in the early rounds. They will meet over the eight, ten-minute round route.

In the semi-final, Jules Strongbow, Oklahoma braver, will tackle a newcomer to local wrestling circles, Harry Kent, who hails from New York. Strongbow showed here last week against a Jack Forsgren, the Vancouver fireman, but lost the referee's decision when he engaged in too many rough tactics, such as strangling the Vancouverite with a belt.

KENT HAS GOOD RECORD

Kent has met and defeated some of the best in the game and should prove a worthy opponent for the chief when two rings gets tough.

The special five six-minute round event brings together two more outsiders, Rudy Brenner and Fred Carone. Little is known of these two grapplers, who are newcomers to the Pacific Northwest, but both are big and fast and reportedly capable wrestlers.

CROWD ENJOYS "DONKEY BALL"

DUNCAN, Oct. 1—A crowd of over one thousand turned out to see "donkey baseball" at the Agricultural Hall last night. The antics of the donkeys, the Eiks and Klusmen kept the crowd in an hilarious mood from start to finish. The proceeds of the show will be donated to local charities.

BAR GOLD AT LONDON

MONTREAL, Oct. 1 (P)—Bar gold in London up 2 cents at $14.76 an ounce in Canadian funds, 14.51-54 in British funds. The fixed Washington price amounted to $35 in Canadian funds.

"We, my wife and I, were out driving the other day, and had occasion to pass a farmer's wagon being drawn by a team of mules, as we passed the wagon the mules, slightly frightened, turned their heads towards us and bawled out a rather friendly greeting.

I said to the wife, "Relatives of yours, no doubt?" She replied, "Yes, by marriage."

Selected Stocks Close Higher at New York Mart

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP).—Buyers ignored the usual stock-market favorites today and scooped through the list picking up a wide assortment of industrial specialties and some merchandise, farm implement and rail equipment shares.

Transactions dropped to 1,107,410 shares from 1,356,125 the day before. The Associated Press average of 50 stocks was one-tenth of a point higher at 67.7. Thus the narrow range it settled into after a spurt last Saturday on the franc devaluation move was prolonged.

Baldwin Locomotive preferred advanced 2 1/2-2 on news of new common stockholders' plan to reorganize the company to seek court confirmation. A new Baldwin Locomotive preferred reached a new top at 96, up 2, and buyers nibbled at other rail equipment shares on prospects the next few months would see fair business from carriers.

Encouraging further recovery from franc devaluation nervousness, corporate loans in the bond market scored gains.

U.S. Governments were 5-32 of a point higher to 2-32 down 1/8.

French stamped 7s rose 4 points on a single transaction, but the stamped 7 1/2's gave up as much on a fair turnover.

Domestic loans were fractions to 4 points up.

THE TUTTS ... By Crawford Young

THE WORLD AT ITS WORST By CLUYAS WILLIAMS

A remarkable experience befell Colonel Foley when he was traveling along Oxford Street in a bus and heard the conductor telling a passenger the names of the shops that originally stood on the site of a large store. Surmising that the man had probably delivered letters there, Colonel Foley asked him:

Jane Dixon Says:

THE IMMATURITY OF THE GIRL WHO WRITES TODAY'S LETTER EXCUSES HER FAILURE TO UNDERSTAND THAT DECEPTION IS SO MUCH MORE CRUEL THAN TRUTH, AND THAT TRUTH CAN BE A KINDNESS.

There are times when we must be cruel only to be kind. Here's a girl whose immaturity excuses her lack of understanding. She does not understand, for example, that deception is so much more cruel than truth; that truth, however much it may hurt, can be a kindness.

"Dear Miss Dixon:
I'm seventeen and I've been going with a young man six years senior.
"He certainly is everything that is fine and decent.
"I admire him very much, but find, to my dismay, that what I have for him is admiration only, not a deep affection as he believes.
"All his friends know that he thinks a great deal of me, and for that reason I keep up the pretence of being as fond of him as he wishes.
"He is one of the finest men I know, therefore I do not want to hurt or disillusion him.

SHE VALUES HIS FRIENDSHIP

"What I want to know is this: Is it really fair to pretend and to lead him on now and to let things drift, just for the sake of saving his face before his friends?
"Understand, please, that I would do anything for this young man, anything to unravel what is now becoming a knot—and to keep his friendship.

"I'm not saying this just to be gallant. I really did think I was terribly fond of him. I'm afraid if I keep drifting I'll only hurt him more.

"What I intended doing before I wrote to you was to encourage him until he tires of me, which he is bound to do under the circumstances, then let him break off with me, so that I didn't 'throw him over.'

"He is sensitive. I'd rather do anything than hurt him.
"What is your suggestion?" M. W.

GOOD HEART, BUT BAD JUDGMENT

Answer: Your confusion of mind is caused by a combination of good heart and bad judgment.

Kindness and consideration colored every line of your letter which warmed my heart. So much of youth today is reckless and cruel.

I can understand why the young man is so devoted to you—you are the sprout of what should grow to be a very fine woman.

About your judgment—always try to remember that the shortest distance between two points is a straight line.

Travel the straight way, even though, at the time, it may seem more difficult to negotiate than the far way.
It's marvelous the way truth scales precipices and leaps over ravines and levels mountains.

Tell the young man that you admire him tremendously, that you want him for your friend, but that you feel you are too young to centre your affection. Explain to him that you would do anything for him except be untrue to your own convictions, which are that you must be free to know your own heart.

DISCARD PRETENCE

If he is the fine young man you've pictured he will not think of 'face' before his friends, but he'll think of you, and he will enter into the new deal of friendship without being discouraged about the future of love.

Please discard the idea of putting on a show of affection.
That would be real cruelty.

Believe me, Question Mark, when I tell you from away deep down that an exhibition of love which does not exist is cheap acting.

This is not a matter between you and the young man and his friends.

It is a matter between you and the young man.
Truth does not have to save its face.
The face it saves when it's truth.

CHAPTER XIII

Well, why not explain the damn-ning situation, Shane thought. She's been here before long anyhow. He himself would have to tell her. "It's this way, Rose," he said. He took her hand, and she did not withdraw it. "You think it's all finished now. It isn't. It's only just begun."

"Why—why? What do you mean?" The jury—

"The jury left an open verdict," he said. "That's all right as far as it goes. But it doesn't go anywhere. I'm still under suspicion. You must see that. The coroner's jury didn't say I killed Black Sam. But they didn't say I didn't kill him. Party or parties unknown. That leaves things just where they were before. And the circumstantial evidence is against me. Oh, I'm not such a fadhead as to think there's no reason to suspect me. I was a—d detective, I'd surely want to know what Shane O'Hara was doing while—while Don Fernando was getting his cigar case. And they will want to know, Rose—they will. And of course they won't take my word for it."

"Oh!" breathed the girl. "Oh—"

"What it comes down to," continued Shane, nervously, "is this. It's not a case of their proving me guilty, because I am already guilty in their eyes—the eyes of the law—through circumstantial evidence. It's a case of my having to prove my innocence. And—and how am I going to do that? I ask you."

"It—it doesn't seem possible," said Rose. "Why—anyone would know—"

"She broke off, realizing that this was purely her own opinion. Shane understood. "Well, in Baltimore, maybe," he said, "anyone would know. But who out here knows Shane O'Hara? I might be anything—even one of those Eastern gangsters that the Los Angeles papers are full of news about."

"Fifteen!" said Rose indignantly. "Even if they don't know you, they know my granddaddy. Fat chance an Eastern gangster would have of being a guest at Soledad! But seeing that Shane was genuinely worried, she asked, 'Is there anything you can do about it, Shane?'"

"There's certainly one thing I can do about it," he said. "I can try to find out who really killed Black Sam. At least, his voice grew bitter, 'If I'm left at liberty to try, then, his voice growing hoarse, 'But one thing is certain. I'm not going to remain a guest at Soledad. It wasn't my fault, but I've brought trouble to you all. Brought gossip down upon you. Your guest, suspected of murder—not manslaughter—murder, of Sam Verdugo. No, I must go away from here. Leave you alone. Not think—any more—" killer. I won't do it." "You won't take me?" "No." "You're going to throw me down—Shane?"

Shane O'Hara growled. "That's all right," then, said the girl, rising. "You'd better go talk to granddaddy. He'll tell you how big an idiot you are. I can't. I've got to get my fiesta costume finished."

When Shane at last left the rose garden and went toward the house, he saw Black Sam's brother, Jose Verdugo, standing by the veranda looking to Don Fernando. At Shane's approach the old man nodded and went into the house. Jose turned to touch his hat to Shane. "You wanted to see me?" asked Shane.

"Yes, please," replied Jose, now removing his hat. "Come to tell you I'm not a swarmer for you. That's all."

"You mean?" said Shane, puzzled. "A warrant?" "Yes. Warrant for killing Black Sam, my brother."

"Oh," said Shane. It would be the duty of some kin of Black Sam to charge him with the killing, he remembered. "You no kill him," said Jose. Shane gasped. Was the cloud to be lifted so soon?

"Then you know who did kill him," he said. But Jose shook his black head and shrugged his broad shoulders. "No, sir. Don't know. Know you no killed him."

"But," said Shane, more than puzzled. "But maybe you suspect who did it, eh?" "No sir," said Jose. "I dunno who did it. Maybe somebody. But know you didn't. So won't swear. Good-bye, mister. Tapki."
